A CMA Certification Can Give You the Skills to Make It Your Reality.

You're a Professional. Now Prove It.

Accounting isn't just a numbers game—it involves strategy, innovation, and leadership. A CMA certification positions you for success across every spectrum of the profession.

Securing Employer Support for Your CMA Journey

Ready to take the next step but need your company's backing? Don't worry. Many employers are eager to support certification efforts when they understand the value it brings back to their organization.

Here are some tips on how to start a dialogue and frame your request:

- ✔ Frame It as a Win-Win: Highlight how your certification will enhance efficiency and strategy across the board. The valuable skills you will learn will bring more strategic thinking to your company. In turn, you are aiding them in gaining a competitive edge in an ever-changing business landscape.
- ✔ Align with Company Objectives: Show how your CMA skills will directly contribute to solving company challenges. Your enhanced skills will lead to more accurate forecasting, improved financial reporting, and streamlined operations. This is a great time to bring up real-world problems your company may be facing, and that staying current with evolving industry standards and best practices will foster innovation within your processes.
- ✔ Highlight the Skills and Networking Access: With the CMA, you gain access to a global network to tap into for answers to company specific questions. Plus, you'll receive featured content that can be accessed based on company needs. IMA research and thought leadership keeps you up to speed in a rapidly evolving profession, leading to more expertise and knowledge for your company.
- ✔ Discuss Cost & ROI: Be prepared to talk about data and suggest how the organization can save or profit from your enhanced expertise. Did you know that 86% of professionals who complete a CMA program remain with their company after 24 months?* That's a 21% increase in staff retention!
- ✔ Timing is Key: Request a one-on-one meeting with your supervisor, framing it as a discussion about your professional development. A focused meeting ensures the conversation gets the attention it deserves without distractions. Plan your conversation around budget planning periods or employee review cycles.
- ✔ Have a Follow-Up Plan: You should provide additional information after your meeting, including a cost breakdown of the fees. Plus, commit to providing updates or sharing knowledge gained during the process to showcase immediate returns on their investment.
